Satelite radio is the future of radio and is curently taking the same heat that was given to the Satelite Cable TV providers when they where introduced and most recently with the intoduction of local channels boradcast on satelite cable. It is my opinion that comapnies that go one step further and offer something exceptional for a product or service are attacked by the established corporations who do not want to see things change. XM satelite radio has taken the exceptional idea of satelite based radio networks and gone a couple steps further. They should not be punished for excelling beyond every other radio station, radiowave or satelite. Please do not allow big corporations to stop innovation. The National Association of Broadcasters is simply scared and jealous of the success of satelite radio and instead of calling their anty, they have decided to play extremely dirty all the while stifling innovation, justice and progress towards better technology for a better world.
